ABOUT ME

Driven Computer Science student on track to complete my bachelor's degree in three years, with a focus on Cybersecurity and a minor in Economics. I believe the principles that make great technology - efficiency, accuracy, decomposition and creativity - are the same ones that make great individuals. I'm particularly drawn to the intersection of AI and cybersecurity, one of the most consequential frontiers in tech today. My diverse background has shaped me into an adaptable collaborator: clear in communication, attentive to detail, and composed under pressure.
